Happy birthday, Singapore!

The Lion City turns 51 on 9 August, and we're feeling a little dizzy with excitement with the plethora of festivities happening around town. You couldn't have picked a more delightful time to be in Singapore!

Before the fireworks go off on National Day, celebrate Singapore's rich and diverse culinary landscape at the annual Singapore Food Festival (page 11), a 17-day feast that pays homage to our local food culture and heritage.

It gets better: the 2016 Formula 1® Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix (page 10) will once again take over the city for a thrilling weekend of spectacular live performances, incredible deals and adrenaline-pumping action on and off the track.

Can't get enough? That's where we come in; this National Day issue of Singapore Insider packs the best and the latest in town to make sure you enjoy every minute exploring this wonderful city we call home.

Whether you have a week to deep dive or a weekend to scratch the surface, you'll be exposed to the glorious and contemporary Singapore at every turn. Inside these pages, you'll find rich cultural experiences, Southeast Asia's best shopping, stylish bars, innovative restaurants, authentic local hawkers, beautiful landscapes and so much more. These aren't just our top picks: we've also asked some of the city's tastemakers and experts to share their favourite spots (and then some).

So stuff those faces, pop that confetti and get ready to party!

Don't miss 2016 Formula 1® Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix

Whether or not you're into motorsports, September is an exhilarating time to be in Singapore, when the Lion City is all revved up and ready for the 2016 Formula 1® Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix (16 to 18 September). Now in its ninth year, look forward to a weekend filled with high-octane action both on and off the track.

Complementing the race is the Grand Prix Season Singapore (GPSS), an all-encompassing season of lifestyle events that includes culture, dining, retail and entertainment offerings. Festival-goers can look forward to Ultra Singapore on 10 and 11 September. This Miami-originating extravaganza – one of the biggest electronic dance music (EDM) festivals in the world – will feature three stages, 40 artists, and a top-notch stage production with state-of-the-art visuals.

Undoubtedly, the star of the show is the thrilling race, as renowned Formula 1® drivers like Lewis Hamilton and Sebastian Vettel battle to the finish line. Some of the world's hottest musical acts will be headlining the evening's massive concert. Previous headliners include Bon Jovi, Pharrell Williams and Maroon 5, who took to the stage last year.

When the engines turn off, the city pulses with an irrepressible energy as Champagne flows from the bars around town. Those who want to rub shoulders with Formula 1® drivers, supermodels and even royalty, head to Amber Lounge (17 to 18 September) or Podium Lounge (16 to 18 September) at The Ritz Carlton, Millenia Singapore for a glitzy evening.

This year's Grand Prix weekend coincides with Mid-Autumn Festival, so culture vultures looking to take a breather from the F1® buzz should make time to visit Chinatown to join the local community at their celebrations. Be dazzled by colourful lanterns of different shapes and sizes decked along the streets of Chinatown.

Singapore Food Festival

You can have anything you want right here in this little red dot when it comes to food. Top-notch pizzas? Get a table at Pizzeria Mozza (#B1-42/46 The Shoppes at Marina Bay Sands). Subliminal sushi? Hashida Sushi (#02-37 Mandarin Gallery) serves one of the best in town. Fancy some modern French plates? Odette (#01-04 National Gallery Singapore) is as good as it gets.

What about Singaporean food? There are plenty of amazing local dishes to be had in this foodie utopia, and they are everywhere – in hawker centres, mom-and-pop eateries, mod-Sin (modern Singaporean) restaurants, and even in five-star hotels around the city. And if you're looking to discover the richness and diversity of Singapore culinary landscape in the most efficient way possible, then mark your calendars for the annual Singapore Food Festival, happening from 15 to 31 July.

Now in its 23rd year, this 17-day eating festival celebrates our local food culture and heritage, and you can expect a mouthwatering smorgasbord of palate-pleasing affairs. Start nosing at the signature event STREAT, an outdoor public food experience that will take you back to old Singapore with delish street food from the past. There will also be modern renditions of local heritage dishes.

Feeling peckish? Be sure to make time for Kueh Appreciation Day, a delightful fiesta that pays tribute to kueh (local bite-sized snacks and desserts) and their traditional methods of cooking. Look forward to sampling a range of treats from different ethnic groups like ang ku kueh (soft and round glutinous rice cakes with a sweet filling such as mung bean or peanut paste) and ondeh ondeh (boiled rice cakes with liquid gula melaka (palm sugar)).

Guided tours are also a great way to experience Singapore's rich food legacy. Join several CRAVE! local foods tours and explore the plethora of flavours that best represent the city's food scene.

Ready your appetite, foodies! There are heaps more to be had at the highly anticipated gastronomic festival. Check out www.singaporefoodfestival.com for a complete overview!

Design Insider Selwyn Low

FOR THE PAST 10 YEARS, FARM HAS BEEN TRANSFORMING SINGAPORE'S LANDSCAPE THROUGH ITS ARCHITECTURE, DESIGN AND EVEN ART PROJECTS, INCLUDING LLOYD'S INN HOTEL AND RESIDENTIAL DEVELOPMENT - OUR PUNGGOL. WE SPEAK TO THE UBER-TALENTED FOUNDER ABOUT HIS STUDIO'S BEST WORKS, SINGAPORE'S ARCHITECTURAL LANDSCAPE, AND HIS FAVOURITE HANGOUTS IN THE CITY.

Pearl Bank Apartments

The Interlace

Flower Dome

FARM is...

a practice that creates new brand experiences both visually and spatially. We're currently busy with a few new hotels in Singapore and property developments around the region.

Our latest works include...

the Art Connector, a structure that we created with local artist Grace Tan. It links from City Hall MRT station to the National Gallery Singapore. We also initiated Project Bench – we salvaged timbers from the old National Stadium to be made into public benches. That was especially meaningful to me.

The Farm Store...

really happened by chance. When we hosted Rojak talks (a sharing session for local creatives) in the late 2000s, we met many homegrown designers. Together, we pondered on creating more locally designed objects. Later, we were tasked by the National Museum and Singapore Art Museum to create their inaugural product range, which included now-evergreen local souvenirs such as the tutu kueh (steamed rice flour cakes filled with sugared ground peanuts, or a combination of palm sugar and shredded coconut) erasers, and the Made for Sam line of trinkets. That initiative spurred more shops and designers to create locally design products, and we started The Farm Store to help distribute these creative products.

Singapore's architectural landscape is...

always evolving with newer, shinier buildings existing side-by-side with old ones. I also love how our streets are lined with trees – the greenery makes me happy!

I admire...

The Interlace, a residential development, and the very old Pearl Bank Apartments. To me, both are innovative attempts at communal housing as they redefine urban living. I'm also drawn to buildings that work harmoniously with the tropical landscape: PARKROYAL at Pickering is a great example.

The best places for local food are...

too many to list! But for a supercharged local food experience, my top spots are Maxwell Food Centre, Hong Lim Market & Food Centre, and Tiong Bahru Market. Nothing beats the multi-sensory experience of eating in a clean hawker centre, and that's uniquely Singapore.

Besides The Farm Shop (of course)...

the Singapore Visitor's Centre at Orchard Gateway is a great place to grab a good, meaningful memento from Singapore. It has a great selection of items by local designers. Our museums also boast amazing retail spaces too, such as Gallery & Co. at National Gallery Singapore, Supermama at Singapore Art Museum and Museum Label at National Museum of Singapore.

If friends from out of town are here for a visit...

I will plan a shiny-to-gritty tour of Singapore to show how eclectic we are as a city! We'll hit up Gardens by the Bay to visit the spectacular Flower Dome and marvel at the grandeur of man-made nature, and then contrast the experience with the naturally aged beauty of Singapore Botanic Gardens (it's also our first UNESCO World Heritage site). The afternoon will be spent at the museums and cultural sites, including the Singapore Art Museum and ArtScience Museum™. The latter is notable for bringing architecture, conservation and art under one big roof. In the evening, we'll make our way to Geylang for amazing local food and bustling atmosphere. After dinner, we'll do a quick zip around Mustafa Shopping Centre, then have supper in the Little India vicinity – people really don't sleep here!

Unbelievable Tours

LOOKING TO EXPERIENCE A DAY TRIP WITH A DIFFERENCE? THESE BRILLIANT TOURS AROUND LOCAL HISTORIC SITES SHOW YOU THE OLD SINGAPORE.

Singapore may be only 51 years young, but the story of this little red dot actually begins much earlier, as a thriving port of call before it became a British colony in 1826. The colonial-state later fell under the Japanese occupation from 1942 to 1945 during World War II, and it was a major turning point in Singapore's history as it sparked the building of a nation.

Remnants of the war are littered throughout the city, but a good place to start your journey into the past is at Changi Museum. It serves as a memorial to the soldiers and victims of the Japanese Occupation through the documentation of the emotional events that happened during the tumultuous period. Choose to explore key historic sites including Selarang Barracks, Johore Battery, and Changi Beach on the Changi WWII tour or learn about the stratagems and actions that instigated the downfall of Singapore in WWII at the Through Fog & Fire – The Battle for Singapore, 1942 tour.

Those keen on a broader itinerary can go on the East Coast & Changi tour by Tour East Singapore. This excursion, which starts with a jaunt around Malay cultural enclave Kampong Glam, will take you through the Changi Chapel and Museum, where you'll experience the tragedies and triumphs that emerged during WWII. Then, you'll be driven through the quaint and rustic Changi Village to see a more tranquil, laid-back side of modern Singapore, before making your way to Tampines New Town, a bustling heartland.

Another important landmark in Singapore's wartime history is Fort Canning, a small hill where colonial and modern Singapore was born. For a deep dive into the hill's rich history, join Journeys' Of Graves, Guns & Battle tour; you'll visit the graves of war victims and heroes, as well as explore a former WWII underground command centre called the Battlebox.

One of the fiercest battles that took place in Singapore during WWII is the Battle of Pasir Panjang, in which Second Lieutenant Adnan Saidi led the Malay Regiment soldiers against a 13,000-strong Japanese army. Relive this heroic clash at Reflections at Bukit Chandu by The National Heritage Board as you interact with the historical artefacts and exhibits. For a more in-depth war experience, you can also embark on the War & Peace: The Kranji Experience tour by Singapore History Consultants, as you explore the site of Kranji Beach Battle, the second attack on Singapore by the Japanese before the Battle of Pasir Panjang.

One dish, three ways

CHOCK FULL OF FLAVOUR AND MELT-IN-THE-MOUTH TENDER, LOCAL FOOD STAR BEEF RENDANG (SLOW-COOKED BEEF IN A RICH LEMON GRASS AND COCONUT SAUCE) HAS INDONESIAN ORIGINS AND IS TYPICALLY ENJOYED WITH A MEDLEY OF OTHER SIDE DISHES. HERE'S WHERE TO GO FOR MODERN RENDITIONS OF THIS HOT MESS.

Rendang stew, made with coconut milk, garlic, red chillis, toasted coriander, chopped fresh ginger, onions, cardamom, toasted cumin, turmeric, sliced galangal, fresh lemongrass, kaffir lime leaves, cinnamon stick, shallots.

SLAKE BAR + KITCHEN BEEF RENDANG NACHOS

Instead of traditional nachos, crackling, deep-fried wonton skins are smothered in flavour-packed rendang sauce, melt-in-your-mouth beef cubes, and creamy nacho cheese. Watch out: it'll be finished before you know it.

WILD ROCKET BEEF SHORT RIBS IN RENDANG SAUCE

Chef Willin Low of mod-Sin (modern-Singapore) restaurant Wild Rocket makes mouth-watering beef rendang with short ribs, which he slow-cooks for 48 hours until fork-tender in a spicy rendang sauce and serves it with cylindrical-shaped ketupat.

📍 Dhoby Ghaut

Said to originate from Minangkabau, an Indonesian ethnic group, beef rendang usually takes centre stage at Hari Raya feasts and weddings. Typically slow-cooked in a rich lemongrass and coconut sauce, this luscious beef stew is best eaten with rice or ketupat (rice cakes). Rumah Makan Minang (18 Kandahar Street) is said to serve the authentic version, which is drier, has less gravy but is still remarkably tender and flavoursome. The beef rendang dish that's commonly served today in hawker stalls resembles more of a thick curry, thanks to the addition of toasted grated coconut.

THE AWARD-WINNING LOCAL BARTENDER FROM WILDLY POPULAR SPEAKEASY 28 HONG KONG STREET (28HKS) SHARES HIS THOUGHTS ON SINGAPORE'S GROWING COCKTAIL SCENE, AND WHERE TO GO FOR THE BEST DRINKING (AND EATING) EXPERIENCES IN THE CITY.

What makes 28HKS special is...

its well-curated food and drinks menu, as well as top-notch hospitality that the hardworking staff offer to every customer that walks through the door. Most people tend to remember how much fun they had at the bar, rather than how balanced the Negroni was.

The local bartending scene is...

the epitome of "East meets West" - just like how Singapore is as a country. Bartenders here are constantly experimenting with local and foreign ingredients, flavour profiles, as well as traditional and modern techniques. The use of local flavours really help sets us apart from bars worldwide.

For the best drinking experiences in town, go to...

Manhattan at Regent Singapore and order a Primavera before asking head barman Philip Bischoff to give you a tour of its hidden rooms: an in-bar rickhouse and an impressive ingredients room; Operation Dagger for its Red Eye cocktail, and quiz head barman Luke "Wookiee" Whearty on how they make their bottled fermented beverages, compressed fruits and drinks that come in two different temperatures; and have a chat with the multi-talented bartender Tom Hogan while he makes you a Blood of Dillinger at Anti:Dote.

After a long hard day's work...

I'd go to the 24-hour kopitiam (coffee shop) at Blk 401 Hougang Avenue 10. Simply known as "401" by the residents there, it offers a wide range of local cuisines and my favourites are the chicken rice, laksa (noodles in coconut milk-based curry broth) and Hokkien mee (stir-fried prawn noodles).

If friends from out of town are here for a visit...

I'll bring them for Singapore-style breakfast (soft boiled eggs, kaya (coconut jam) toast and coffee) at a local coffee shop. Then, I'd take them to the zoo just because I love animals! We'll have lunch at Bread Street Kitchen at Marina Bay Sands, before sneaking in an afternoon drink while enjoying the beautiful view of the city's skyline at Cé La Vi. Sentosa's next on the list: we'll chill out by the beach and have some vodka-fuelled Miami Vices cocktails at Tanjong Beach Club. Dinner will be at Lau Pa Sat, where we'll have more local grub to line our bellies for a night of bar-hopping around town, no doubt making a stop at 28HKS. For supper, we'll head to Geylang for a mandatory durian experience - whether they like it or not!

WHITEGRASS

Helmed by Sam Aisbet, alumnus of Tetsuya Wakuda's acclaimed Tetsuya's in Sydney, Whitegrass aims to redefine modern Australian cuisine. Placing a focus on fresh and unique ingredients sourced everywhere from the Blue Mountains in Sydney to Tekka market in Singapore, Aisbet's offerings include tender butter-poached quail paired with diced century-egg whites and black and white garlic. If you want something with a contemporary Japanese twist, try the slow-cooked Mangalica pork. Whitegrass is tucked away in the historically rich and charming compound of CHIJMES, a former convent and chapel.

Cynthia Chua

THE FOUNDER AND CEO OF SPA ESPRIT GROUP, ONE OF SINGAPORE'S LARGEST LIFESTYLE AND BEAUTY EMPIRE, REVEALS HER SOFT SPOT FOR DEMPSEY.

Sitting on a sprawling 35,000 square feet in Dempsey is Open Farm Community, a unique horticultural hub that houses a restaurant, a garden, a retail store-slash-bar and play areas. Here, we catch up with Cynthia Chua, Singapore's undisputed lifestyle maven and the brains behind the project, as she shows us around the lush enclave, which is also home to her first dining venture, House (8D Dempsey Road).

Open Farm Community is...

an experiential green space and urban farmland in the heart of Singapore. It's a place for city dwellers to connect with nature as they learn more about food, its origins, and the role it plays in a modern eco-system.

The idea of urban farming...

was introduced to me three years ago by a talented chef, who wanted to build a local urban farm where he can harvest his own produce. I never thought that was possible in Singapore until I met the passionate group of farmers from Urban Garden City.

I fell in love with Dempsey's...

amazing greenery and tranquility. It's not typical to find a sprawling farm in the city. You feel like you're in Bali here in this neighbourhood. At Open Farm Community, you'll see farmers with straw hats and chefs harvesting and picking produce for the kitchen. It's a visual treat that warms my heart.

Dempsey was formerly...

A nutmeg plantation, until blight destroyed the crops. The British Army converted it into Tanglin Barracks, which was also used by the Japanese military during World War II. In the late 1980s, the barracks was turned into a headquarters for the Ministry of Interior and Defence (MINDEF) and a base for Central Manpower, until the '90s saw the area transforming into a retail enclave.

Not many people know that...

Dempsey's actually brimming with wild life, including Kingfishers, Woodpeckers and Monitor Lizards. It's wonderful to kick back over a meal at any of the café's al fresco seating and soak in nature's wonders.

My five favourite Dempsey spots are...

- 1) Culina, which offers great food made with quality produce,
- 2) Powermoves – this pilates studio whips my body into shape
- 3) Beauty Emporium for quick waxes and great facials,
- 4) House for a mean cup of red tea latte and Asian sliders,
- 5) Samy's, which serves flavour-packed Indian food.

GST REFUNDS

To enjoy the 7 per cent Goods and Services Tax (GST) refunds paid on your purchases under the Tourist Tax Refund Scheme, you must make at least S$100 worth of purchases from participating outlets. Such shops will display a 'Tax Refund' logo or a Global Blue 'Tax Free Shopping' logo. On your day of departure from Singapore Changi Airport, proceed to the Tax Refund Counter and present your purchases together with the tax claim forms for customs inspection. Take note that Customs will not process the tax claim forms if the goods are not presented for inspection. For more information, please log on to the Tourist Refund Scheme page on the Singapore Customs website at www.customs.gov.sg.

eTRS TAX FREE

Skip the queues and file your GST claims at the eTRS self-help kiosk at Changi Airport before you fly! All you need to do is shop at places that display the eTRS sign and use one credit card as a Token for tagging your purchases. Tourists departing on international cruises from Marina Bay Cruise Centre Singapore and the International Passenger Terminal at HarbourFront Centre may also qualify for tax refund. Log on to www.iras.gov.sg for more information.
