Muslim-friendly Singapore

Muslims comprise over 15% percent of Singapore’s population and it is no surprise that this island state offers a large variety of Muslim-friendly gastronomic experiences. Many of these have been Halal certified by MUIS, also known as the Islamic Religious Council of Singapore (Majlis Ugama Islam Singapura). Visitors can also consider Muslim-owned food establishments throughout the city. Furthermore, mosques and musollahs around the island allow you to fulfill your religious obligations while you are on vacation.

As a Muslim traveller, this guide provides you with the information you need to enjoy your stay in Singapore — a city where your passions in life are made possible. You may also download the MuslimSG app and follow @halalSG on Twitter for any Halal related queries while in Singapore.

INTRODUCTION

Muslim-friendly Destination
Singapore has a vibrant and diverse multi-cultural community with accessible Muslim-friendly facilities such as Halal food and prayer spaces in popular areas. This guide helps you to identify the different Halal certified and Muslim-owned establishments around the city.

Ramadan Bazaar
Each year, regardless of race or religion, Singaporeans will flock to the Geylang Serai Ramadan Bazaar for their annual dosage of trendy food, traditional apparel and kuih (traditional Malay sweets) during Ramadan. That is when the bazaar becomes a food and shopping haven. Experience the Ramadan Bazaar in its full glory from when the sun sets till late. You will definitely not want to miss this annual event!

Did You Know?
Singapore is ranked as the top Muslim-friendly destination among non-OIC (Organization of Islamic Cooperation) countries for six consecutive years, according to the Mastercard-CrescentRating Global Muslim Travel Index.

TIPS

Variety of Halal Food in Singapore
Singapore is home to a wide variety of Halal cuisines, from Japanese, Chinese, Korean to Middle Eastern, Western and more. Most fast food chains in Singapore are Halal certified by MUIS. For a quick fix, head over to some of them such as McDonald’s, Burger King, KFC, Long John Silver’s, Popeyes and Texas Chicken. The metropolis has an abundance of Halal restaurants that have been made easily identifiable in this guide by two different Halal logos.

Halal Certified Establishments
Eating establishments bearing this logo indicate that they have been Halal certified by Majlis Ugama Islam Singapura (MUIS), also known as the Islamic Religious Council of Singapore. MUIS is the Islamic authority in-charge of Muslim affairs in Singapore. It provides Halal Certification services and regulates the Singapore Halal industry.

Halal Establishments
Restaurants accompanied with this Halal logo indicate that, while they may not have been Halal certified by MUIS, they are still Halal and are safe to dine in. In this case, the restaurant is either Muslim-owned or uses 100% Halal ingredients and is frequently patronised by local Muslims.

Halal Food at Hawker Centres
Hawker centres are a familiar sight in the city, recognisable by numerous stalls lined up next to each other. Also affectionately referred to by locals as kopitiams, these are food complexes offering various types of cuisines. You will be able to find Halal stalls by looking out for the MUIS Halal certified logo. Although they share a common eating space, you can be assured that the Halal stalls are identified by different coloured cutlery and have a separate wash and tray return area.

Prayer Facilities
Singapore offers plenty of stunning mosques and convenient musollahs (designated prayer rooms in public spaces) should you need a break from sightseeing to perform your daily prayers. All mosques provide a dedicated female prayer and ablution area with privacy as well as female prayer garments.

Ramadan Bazaar
Each year, regardless of race or religion, Singaporeans will flock to the Geylang Serai Ramadan Bazaar for their annual dosage of trendy food, traditional apparel and kuih (traditional Malay sweets) during Ramadan. That is when the bazaar becomes a food and shopping haven. Experience the Ramadan Bazaar in its full glory from when the sun sets till late. You will definitely not want to miss this annual event!

Finding Nearby Prayer Spaces
The places featured in this travel guide are marked with these icons to indicate the nearest prayer space for your convenience.

Teater Ekamatra
ekamatra.org.sg  +65 6435 0131

Teater Ekamatra was founded in 1988 to develop a form of experimental Malay theatre that fuses Southeast Asian theatre styles with contemporary techniques. Since then, the company has expanded its reach to both the Malay community and non-Malay audiences, focusing on general socio-political themes in its production.

At a time when bookstores all over the world were closing down, Ibrahim Tahir’s belief that there was room in the world for a bookstore specialising in English Islamic books, keeps Wardah Books thriving. Seventeen years ago, he opened a small bookstore along North Bridge Road with just a few bookshelves. He believed that these books deserve to take up more than one shelf in a general bookstore.

Today, Wardah Books at Bussorah Street is where readers go to be inspired by books on Islamic history, spirituality, philosophy, and current affairs.

KARVA Salon for ladies
karva.sg

For wife and husband duo, Rozza Ramli and Jai Wahab, KARVA was born out of their shared interests in grooming.

‘I was not an ambitious person. I wanted to have five kids and imagined myself as a housewife,’ said Rozza. After her fourth child, she wondered about what she would do in her free time as her children started to grow up. When Rozza was a flight stewardess, she would check herself into salons during her layovers. She then realised that there was no salon on par with Toni & Guy in Singapore for Muslim ladies. Hence, came the inspiration behind KARVA.

Sometimes passion chooses you instead. Mohd Fared Jainal is the current Artistic Director of Teater Ekamatra but he started out as a graphic designer with love for all forms of art. With an interest in the Malay arts throughout childhood, Fared went into theatre after graduating with a Masters in Arts (Design) from LASALLE College of the Arts. He started out with set design but was soon roped in as a calefare. He then realised how much he loved performing as an actor. From there, he pursued acting at several theatre companies, across different countries and eventually directing plays.

42-year-old Marlinah Bte Ahmad, or Lina, has been an entrepreneur for most of her adult life. In fact, she comes from a family of business owners.

‘But I did not want to open something without heart or purpose,’ said Lina. Lina’s Cafe is derived from her own experiences as a mother. ‘My 14-year-old daughter, Sara, is on the spectrum. When we go out, I find it hard to bring her to restaurants or cafes because she will have her tantrums and meltdowns. We would get stared at and receive verbal abuse. I thought, if it happens to me, it will surely happen to other families with ASD (autism spectrum disorder) kids.’

Nestled along Rochor River, this cultural precinct was once a ‘town’ of racehorse tracks and lime pits with most of its residents being Indian labourers of the cattle trading business. Today, it is one of Singapore’s most vibrant districts where the old meets new.

LITTLE INDIA

HALAL FOOD

Tekka Centre

Built in 1982, Tekka Centre stands as a nostalgic alternative to other supermarkets in Singapore. The wet market sells a range of fruits, vegetables and Halal meat at affordable prices. There is also a hawker centre where visitors may enjoy Halal Indian delicacies like roti prata (Indian bread) and rojak (a variety of fried dough fritters dipped in sweet red peanut sauce).

- Daily 6.30am - 9pm
- Tekka Centre, 665 Buffalo Road L1, S210665

Azmi Restaurant

Dig into some good ol’ chapatí (unleavened flatbread) and pair it with meat and vegetable dishes at Azmi Restaurant. Freshly cooked each day, these chapatis are only a dollar each.

- Daily 7am - 10.20pm
- 168 Serangoon Road, S218051

Beyond Pancakes

Beyond Pancakes prides themselves in making their batter from scratch. You will find four pancake styles: German Flammekouche, Dutch Pannenkoek, French Gallettes, and American. Try the savoury Le Poulet pancakes, which are filled with mushrooms and spring onions, coupled with grilled chicken and vegetables in honey mustard sauce on the side. Do not forget their pastas, burgers and nachos set as well.

- Daily 11.30am - 9pm
- 50 Dunlop Street, S209379

Bismillah Biryani

This famous biryani (seasoned rice with meat, fish and vegetables) restaurant is one of the few restaurants to be awarded a Michelin Bib Gourmand in Singapore. The seasoned rice and marinated meat is cooked together in a pot over a charcoal fire, with charcoal placed on top of the pot as well. Wash down your meal with a mango lassi (yoghurt, water and spices drink).

- Daily 11.30am - 9pm
- 50 Dunlop Street, S209379

The Malayan Council

The Malayan Council elevates Malay dishes by infusing Malay cooking and spices into classic Western dishes. Try their Roti Kari Beef Ribs (soft lace pancakes served with tender beef ribs smothered in gravy). Huge portions and delicious food makes dining at The Malayan Council worth every dollar.

- Daily 11am - 11pm
- 22 Dunlop Street, S209350

Sakunthala’s Restaurant

Whether you are hosting an event or simply want to spend time with your loved ones, Sakunthala’s Restaurant promises to give you a delightful experience. They serve a range of traditional food, namely North Indian, South Indian, Chinese and fusion dishes. A must-try sweet treat is their payasam (a warm milky dessert served with vermicelli).

Chinatown is a true reflection of Singapore as a multi-cultural community. The area is dotted with mosques, Chinese and Hindu temples located beside each other.

THE NEIGHBOURHOOD

Buddha Tooth Relic Temple

The Buddha Tooth Relic Temple was inspired by the Tang Dynasty in China. Step in and view the intricate designs decked in traditional red lacquer paint. The temple gets its name from what the Buddhists regard as the left canine tooth of Buddha, which has been recovered from his funeral pyre in Kushinagar, India.

- Daily 9am - 5pm
- 288 South Bridge Road, S058840

Sri Mariamman Temple

Built in 1827, the Sri Mariamman Temple is known to be the oldest Hindu temple in Singapore. The temple was built as a dedication to Goddess Mariamman, known for her power to cure illnesses and diseases. Prayers are conducted regularly so step inside and witness the rituals firsthand.

- Daily 7am - 11.30am; 6pm - 8:30pm
- 244 South Bridge Road, S058793

Chinatown Heritage Centre

Take a peek into what it was like during the early years of Singapore and learn about the personal stories of those who made Chinatown their home.

- Daily 9.30am - 6.30pm
- 336 Smith Street, S059207

Ann Siang Hill & Kreta Ayer

In the early 19th century, water drawn from wells near Ann Siang Hill was transported in bullock carts named Kreta Ayer, which translates to “water cart” in Malay. Today, conserved shophouses and eclectic murals adorn the streets of Chinatown which are great photo-taking spots.

INSIDER’S TIP

Chinatown is one of the very few areas in Singapore where the original buildings are still cherished.

JAMAE MOSQUE (CHULIA)

Built between 1830 and 1835 by South Indian Tamil Muslim immigrants (known as the Chulias), Jamae Mosque is one of the oldest mosques in Singapore. Join the guided tour that involves a detailed look at the history of the mosque, as well as a deep study into the tenets and philosophies of Islam.

AL-ABRAR MOSQUE

Al-Abrar Mosque, along with Jamae Mosque, are among the oldest mosques in Singapore. Both are similar for having been built by South Indian Tamil pioneers. The fact that Al-Abrar and Jamae Mosque stand less than a kilometre apart from one another attests to the sheer population of Chulias in early Singapore.

An uncommon sight in the Telok Ayer stretch, Royz Et Vous remains a hit amongst local Muslims. While their menu features pasta, pizza and a particularly scrumptious herb-encrusted salmon, the true revelation is their brazen tenderloin. Stop by and grab a cup of their Mint Mocha and Red Velvet Latte while you are at it.

Picanhas’ is named after a cut of beef hugely popular in Brazil. Picanhas’ offers only two types of mains – Queen of Steak and Picanha Don - a testament to their confidence in the quality of their meat. Tender, juicy and covered in binchotan butter, pair your meat with their Wasabi Cream or Chimichurri sauce and top it all off with Hokkaido Scallops or French Foie Gras.

When it comes to an authentic Indonesian dining experience, few come close to Cumi Bali Indonesian Restaurant. The restaurant has several stand-out dishes, one of them is cumi, or squid, and it is the very dish that gives the restaurant its name.

Experience traditional Indonesian cuisine at IndoChili, conveniently located next to Tanjong Pagar MRT station.Previously featured on SimplyHer, The Business Times and My Paper, this family-friendly restaurant prides itself in using only the finest ingredients in their recipes, all of which contain no MSG.

With nine outlets Halal certified islandwide, Poke Theory offers sushi in a bowl packed with a variety of ingredients. Inspired by the Hawaiian poke bowl, choose the size of your bowl, healthy toppings and choice of marinated poke - salmon, tuna, chicken or avocado and top it all off with some garnish.

Segar (‘fresh’ in Malay) Restaurant is what comes to mind when locals seek for Halal Chinese tzechar. Tzechar is derived from the Hokkien (a Southern Chinese dialect) phrase for ‘cook and fry’. The portions in Tzechar restaurants tend to be large – encouraging the spirit of sharing. Be sure to feast on the iconic fish head curry!
